A Note from Leslie

For those of you who are getting ready for “back to school” routines, and for those who are not, I thought it might be fun to offer you a little quiz. E-mail your answers to leslie@ltrealtor.com along with your name and mailing address by September 1st. I’ll send you a small gift and a copy of a study conducted by the National Association of Home Builders which contains answers to these questions and many more. Care to guess?

1. What percentage of U.S. occupied homes is located in the Midwest?
2. How many housing units are there in the U.S.? How many of those units are vacant?
3. What is the life expectancy of the insulation in your home? How about vinyl siding? A wood deck?
4. If you want to install a countertop that will last a lifetime, what type of material should you select?
5. What common kitchen appliance has the shortest life expectancy?

A perfect score is not required. Just venture a guess and you’ll get credit for participating. For those of you who do not care to participate but would still like to know the answers to these questions, I’ll post them on my web site beginning September 1.
